WROCLAW MARKET SQUARE

The inhabitants of Wrocław and their guests usually meet at several landmarks in the market square: the pillory, the Source fountain, and the Aleksander Fredro monument.

In the north-western corner of the market square there are two medieval tenement houses called "Hansel" and "Gretel", with an arcade between them. The Wrocław market square is vibrant with life throughout the year. This is where traditional Christmas fairs and St. John's fairs are held, as well as New Year's Eve events, all kinds of festivals, and military, academic and religious events.

OSTRÓW TUMSKI

called the Wrocław Vatican was the place of the original settlement, which was expanding throughout the years. From the late Middle Ages the area has belonged to the church; at present it is a place with the largest number of cathedrals and churches. Gaslights, traditionally lit by a lamplighter wearing a black cloak and a hat, also give some magic to the place.

THE RACŁAWICE PANORAMA

is a monumental painting, 114 metres long and 15 metres high. It depicts the victorious Battle of Racławice of April 1794 in which Poles defeated the Russians. It was the artists' intention to give viewers an impression of being in the middle of events. A special kind of set decorations placed in front of the painting, lighting, and a panoramic perspective render its multidimensional character and make it possible to compare the effects used in the painting to those applied in the modern 3D technology.
